Bypolls tomorrow for 3 MP and 2 MLA seats

Mysuru, Nov. 2- With the by-election to Mandya, Shivamogga and Ballari (ST) Lok Sabha (LS) seats and Ramanagara and Jamkhandi Assembly seats scheduled to take place tomorrow (Nov. 3), political parties are making last ditch efforts to woo the voters by going on a door-to-door campaign today.

The public campaigning ended yesterday.

The bypoll to Mandya LS seat was caused by the resignation of C.S. Puttaraju (JD-S), who quit after getting elected from Melukote in the May 2018 Assembly polls while the bypoll for Shivamogga was necessitated by the resignation of State BJP Chief B.S. Yeddyurappa who was elected from Shikaripur and the bypoll for Ballari (ST) seat by the resignation of B. Sriramulu (BJP), who resigned after his election from Molakalmuru.

Monarch of maladies

The list of maladies, bugging both our body and mind, seems to be galloping in number and intensity with no signs of abating, outpacing the global efforts of researchers in the field of sickness care to find drugs and other remedial measures. Various agencies in different countries, in company of World Health Organisation are engaged in the task of keeping a vigil on the trends of diseases and disorders, endemic and universal, systematically generating comprehensive data and information followed by publication in a multitude of channels for maximum outreach to both governments of countries, research institutions and people at large creating awareness. The response from the various targets for dissemination of knowledge about causes and preventing the outbreak of diseases, many of them life-threatening and also contagious is dependent upon many factors, particularly budgetary provisions for healthcare of citizens of respective countries. The sprawling dark clouds of sickness in India has a silver lining as reflected by both government and private agencies establishing well-equipped hospitals in many cities across the country.

We are regularly being informed in reliable channels about the country being dubiously projected as the world's hub of many diseases and disorders, highlighting diabetes, malaria, tuberculosis, cardiac afflictions and cancer, in their ascending order of debilitating the population. However, the advisory on avoiding inappropriate lifestyle and zealously safeguarding sanitary environment doesn't seem to be heeded by large sections of the land's masses.

While some diseases, apart from the aforementioned major ailments, are being faced by the country's people at large with reasonable optimism, aided by facilities of health insurance, cashless hospitalisation, Jan Aushadhi outlets offering medicines for 1,300 different ailments at discounted prices, the monarch of maladies as it were, cancer has descended on families like a bolt from the blue, the resulting devastation beyond the limits of facing the shock. As explained by a highly rated science writer, cancer is an uncontrolled growth and multiplication of cells in specific organs such as lung and intestines, which are damaged due to inborn (genetic) or external triggers such as smoking. Cancer cells, whose DNA (basic building matter in the form of an acid in the centre of the cells of living things, responsible for characteristics being passed on from parents to their offsprings) develop new physical characteristics due to such damage, go on a rampant growth leading to tumours, weakening the body and ultimately even death, the writer avers.

The heartening news is: With the advances made by the two awardees of Nobel Prize for medicine this year, it does appear that the rein of cancer may indeed come to an end sooner than later.

EDITOR'S BOTTOMLINE

There could be no more devastating indictment of the National Democratic Alliance (NDA) government than the revelation that Indians headed the list of people worldwide who fled their country last year. Scandals about the Central Bureau of Investigation (CBI) might recall Nirad C. Chaudhuri's grim prediction that lofty institutions are doomed to extinction as "universal darkness buries all." A frenzied religious diet justifies the "Lynchistan" sobriquet. But when 17 million Indians shake India's dust off their feet to seek their fortune abroad, according to the Asian Development Bank, it only means people are losing faith in the ability of the most stridently nationalistic government we have had to honour its promises and meet public aspirations. — Sunanda K. Datta-Ray in Business Standard.

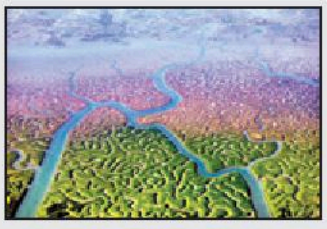
World's most unofficial handsome stallion

Amsterdam: Frederick the Great, a 16-year-old Friesian stallion is the proud holder of the unofficial title of "world's most beautiful horse".

Born in the Netherlands, Frederick was imported into the United States by Stacy Nazario, owner of Pinnacle Fiesians, a horse farm in Arkansas, when he was 6 years old. Nazario said that she knew there was something special about him the first time she saw him, and her instincts proved correct, as Frederick grew into a magnificent specimen that has been known to make humans jealous of his looks.

People just couldn't believe how gorgeous he looked, with his muscular body, shiny coat and a flowing black mane that seemed to dance in the wind, and some were convinced that he was by far the most beautiful horse on the planet. That's how he got his titles of "world's most handsome stallion" and "world's most beautiful horse".

A park that looks like a giant brain from above



Bahía de Cadiz: The San Fernando marshes in Bahía de Cadiz Natural Park, Spain, looks like a giant brain because of their uncanny resemblance to a human brain, when seen from above.

Covering an area of 105 square kilometers, Bahía de Cadiz Natural Park consists of wetlands, beaches, pine forests and reed beds, and has long been a popular destination for nature lovers, but it only received its unusual nickname a couple of years ago, when an aerial photo started doing the rounds online.

The picture was taken by wildlife photographer Cristobal Serano who immesdiately spotted the similarities between the marshes and the human brain, the first time he flew over them, and decided to capture the unreal sight on camera.

CNC holds Delhi Chalo for Kodagu autonomy status

New Delhi, Nov. 2- The Codava National Council (CNC) which has been peacefully agitating for Kodagu autonomy status in New Delhi on Nov. 1 every year since 1994, has this year extended the agitation to outside the French Embassy.

They held a protest yesterday at Sansad Marg (Parliament Street) and French Embassy in New Delhi to highlight the demand for autonomy and to express opposition to celebrations of Karnataka Rajyotsava Day since it was on this day, Kodava homeland, the then Part C State of India became part and parcel of Mysore State now Karnataka under State Re-organization Act, 1956.

To stage the protest in New Delhi, CNC members flew to the national capital and staged a day-long peaceful protest. Shouting slogans, they demanded immediate autonomy that will help Kodava community to safeguard their vanishing culture and customs.

Demanding a Codava Autonomous Region and Union territory status for Kodagu (Coorg) district, the CNC, led by its President, N.U. Nachappa, has since 1994 been coming to New Delhi on Nov. 1, with groups of Kodavas to hold a peaceful rally.

The CNC protested outside the French Embassy because of alleged support of the French to Tipu Sultan. On Dec. 13, 1785, about 60,000 unarmed Kodavas were allegedly massacred ruthlessly by Tipu Sultan's army at Devatt Parambu. The CNC wants the French Government to tender an official apology for supporting Tipu Sultan.

Split-up of traffic fines

Sir,

Periodically from the Office of the Mysuru City Police Commissioner, news bulletins are released mentioning about the traffic fines collected by the Traffic Police under different traffic rules violation heads.

Till date they have not given the split-up figure for the registration number plate rules violation. Apparently, a serious traffic offense like riding without a Regn. No. plate or having a defective number plate is considered as an acceptable traffic rules violation by our Traffic Police, who are worried about only implementing the 'helmet rule' and they apprehend only helmet less riders, turning a blind eye to many other visible traffic rules violations.

While on the customary blind check of helmetless riders, Traffic Police need to check the vehicles for other violations also.

Forgery case

Court issues arrest warrant against former Mayor

Mysuru, Nov. 2- In the wake of the Second Additional District and Sessions Court upholding the verdict pronounced by the First Chief Judicial Magistrate (CJM) Court in a forgery case against former Mayor and Advocate R.G. Narasimha Iyengar, the Lower Court has issued an arrest warrant against Narasimha Iyengar.

In May this year, the First CJM Court had sentenced Narasimha Iyengar to one year simple imprisonment and had imposed a fine of Rs.10,000 in the forgery case. Iyengar had gone on appeal at the Second Additional District and Sessions Court. Upholding the judgement of the Lower Court, Judge Vijayakumar M. Anandashetty quashed the appeal filed by Narasimha Iyengar and has recommended the Bar Council to take disciplinary action against Iyengar and prosecution witness Advocate Chidambaram.

The Court also ordered that the documents and the judgement copies be sent immediately to the Lower Court for appropriate action. Following this, the arrest warrant has now been issued.

Iyengar, who was the advocate for complainant M.B. Parvathi (Tiny Bidappa), had filed a case against Allahabad Bank in 1993 at the Consumer Court for an unexplained withdrawal of money towards loan account. The Court, after hearing the case in 2006, had given the judgement in favour of Parvathi and had ordered the Bank to give two cheques for Rs. 84,600 and Rs.500 respectively to the Court.

In the meantime, Iyengar forged the signature of Parvathi and had transferred the amount to his account following which she had filed a complaint in 2008.

Following a Police complaint, the cheques and other related documents were sent to Forensic Science Laboratory (FSL)which in its report dated July 1, 2009 had stated that signature and writing behind the cheque were forged. Based on the FSL report, the Police had submitted a chargesheet against Iyengar and following this, the First CJM Court convicted Advocate Iyengar.

Over a cup of evening Tea

By Dr. K. Javeed Nayeem, MD

A vision revisited, after a full 10 years !

Friends, today is a sad day for me ! I should have been celebrating over the completion of thirteen years of my writing this column. But here I am, feeling sad, while contemplating over where we stand as a nation ! To remain on track of what I had proposed and promised to do ten years ago I should have written this article about eight months ago. But since I had not set a reminder to do this, I console myself today by saying 'Better late than never' and feel relieved morally that I am doing it, although a little past the deadline, instead of not doing it at all !

In February 2008, Sadhguru Jaggi Vasudev of the Isha Foundation, Coimbatore, who actually hails from our own city, was felicitated here on his being invited as a guest speaker at the World Economic Forum at Davos in Switzerland for the third consecutive year. As is customary, at the felicitation function which was unusually well-attended by the elite of our city, the sage also delivered a lecture. I did not attend this lecture which was held on a Sunday for my own reasons but I wrote an article about it the next Friday as a part of my weekly column. Here is a synopsis of what I wrote:

Everyone who attended the function said that the sage was a very impressive orator who spoke very sensibly too. This is not surprising, considering the fact that to be invited to address the World Economic Forum on three consecutive years, one has to not only speak impressively but also make good sense. And these days, people who speak impressively and make good sense too are indeed getting rarer and rarer! According to media reports, the gist of what the sage said referred to the bright and powerful future that awaits India in just ten years from now. Describing spirituality too as a science, he has emphasised the importance of binding spirituality and economics together to achieve unmatched prosperity. Now, this is the key point in his discourse that I wish to discuss here.

Many have predicted a bright future for us in the past and many continue to do it even today, especially our politicians, although they are in fact the ones who are continuing to mar it. But although I am a die-hard optimist, this forecast which should have made me happy too like all others, somehow only awakens the sleeping sceptic within me. It is because what most of those who were present there heard at the discourse was only a saint's vision of what is in store for us and what I heard without being there is what is expected of us to achieve all that he has predicted... the binding of spirituality with economics. I am afraid that without the first and perhaps more vital of the two ingredients, this vision will only remain a vision just like the many prophecies of prosperity that wise men and women have been giving us from time to time and which have unfortunately continued to elude us.

Over the decades, especially after independence, contrary to the spurt that our patriotism should have shown, we have sadly been seeing a very dismal and deep slump especially in our leaders' commitment to making our country strong and stable. Today their track record as leaders is so bad that we have all naturally stopped expecting any good to come out of the governance provided by them. Yet despite being vested with full powers under our democratic setup to do otherwise, we the 'wise and well-read' like the proverbial sheep, paradoxically continue to elect only leaders of mediocre calibre.

Despite all the social and intellectual evolution that we all claim to have undergone over the years, our constant pre-occupation still seems to be only with our caste and communal identities and not with any notion of our nationhood as a whole. The net result is that we are only marking time while the rest of the world is marching ahead. Whatever little we have achieved in the fields of education and industry which are our brightest stars today, is only because of private enterprise alone. I refer to these achievements as 'whatever little' because despite the excellence that we have achieved in these two sectors our intellectuals have failed miserably in effecting any change in the leadership we elect and our industrial products have failed to make their presence felt next to all the Chinese goods that we see on the shop shelves abroad and in our own country too!

Today almost all the accessories that a top-end camera, computer, cell phone or car requires are all sourced from China, having been manufactured to international specifications and standards. The faith of international brand leaders somehow seems to be rather weak in our production abilities and quality controls. On the agricultural front we are still way behind the rest of the world, continuously entangling ourselves year after year in counterproductive local and international policies, the long term significance of which our leaders can never fathom while blindly affixing their signatures on trade and patent agreements. Thanks to our culture of 'Job Security' our babus need to work briefly, only before getting into their government jobs and never after. Consequently we have the world's largest 'non-working' work force draining our already gasping economy.

Lastly and most sadly, the laws of our land and our legal system too in their existing form with their innumerable loopholes and technical limitations are all too-well known only to favour the transgressors. The result is that corruption that has unfortunately been encrypted into our genes is steadily growing in magnitude. Gone are the days when it used to thrive discreetly at the lower levels of our bureaucracy. It now proudly flourishes even at the highest administrative levels sadly including our defence and security services, nourished by the reassuring knowledge that our legal system behind its tough exterior is only an aged and toothless paper tiger. It is common knowledge today that the seriousness of the crime is nothing before the clout of the committer. So unless his advice about binding spirituality with economics is taken seriously by every Indian I am afraid that Sadhguru Jaggi Vasudev's prophecy too like Tagore's immortal Gitanjali, which according to me is still the greatest vision for our country, will fall flat as just another victim of our lack of commitment and patriotism. Since ten years is not a very long time, all those of us who are going to live that long would do well to remember the Sage's words and mine too and watch what happens. I hope and pray for our country's sake that he turns out right and I turn out wrong!"

So friends, having placed before you what I had written more than ten years ago and having lived long enough to write today's piece on the same subject, I would like to invite you to look back with me upon this journey of a full decade to find out if we have bound spirituality with economics and also see what we have achieved as a nation. I would like to point out that for me, this revisit to the past after ten-long-years has not been a very happy experience. To me this only seems like a tearful visit to a cemetery where we have ourselves killed and buried all the visions and pledges that we should have carried patriotically in our hearts and minds like blazing torches, taking them to greater and more meaningful heights of achievement through their realisation. Irrespective of what songs our leaders sing in praise of what they have been doing and what colours they use to paint the future of our nation a rosy pink, to the realist in me the landscape looks just the same drab grey it was a decade ago ! Do think about it to see if it looks any different to some of you !

Press photographer commits suicide

T. Narasipur, Nov. 2 (SK&KS)- Unable to bear stomach pain, a 26-year-old press photographer-cum-reporter allegedly committed suicide by consuming poison near Yedadore in the taluk last Tuesday. The deceased is Naveen Kumar, son of Mahadevappa of Bendarawadi village in Malavalli taluk.

Naveen, who had gone out on some work, was returning to T.Narasipur on Tuesday afternoon, where he stopped his vehicle on Mysuru Main Road near Yedadore and consumed poison.

Passersby, who saw Naveen writhing in pain on the roadside, admitted him to a private hospital in Mysuru, where he breathed his last. The body was handed over to the family members after post-mortem and later taken to Bendarawadi village, where the last rites were performed. A case has been registered at the Town Police Station.

Dr. Veerendra Heggade completes 50 golden years as Dharmadhikari

Grand civic reception accorded to Srikshetra Dharmasthala Pattadhikari in city

Mysuru, Nov. 2 (MTY&BCT)- A grand civic reception and felicitation was accorded to Padma Bhushan and Dharmadhikari of Srikshetra Dharmasthala, Rajarishi Dr. D. Veerendra Heggade at Maharaja's College Grounds this morning. The occasion was to mark his completion of 50 years after taking over the administration of Dharmasthala as Pattadhikari.

Pattadhikari Dr. Veerendra Heggade is a renowned philanthropist and has been the hereditary administrator of the Dharmasthala Temple in Dakshina Kannada. The 400-year-old Shiva temple is a household name, taken care of by Vaishnavite priests and administered by the Jain Heggade family, in a long tradition of multi-religiousness.

Dr. Heggade has greatly expanded the scale and scope of the services provided by the temple and his Dharmasthala Gramabhivruddhi initiative covers 19,028 villages and 320 towns. It facilitates empowerment of 2.59 million families in agriculture, health, sanitation and women empowerment. He has also established numerous charitable trusts that run hostels, schools, colleges and hospitals, and are engaged in renovating ancient temples.

A colourful procession was organised at the Maharaja's College this morning as part of the grand event where cultural troupes including Veeragaase, Dollu Kunitha and Nandi Dhwaja displayed their performance. Women carrying traditional Poorna Kumbha Kalasha and Chande Maddale Mela ceremonially welcomed Dr. Heggade and other dignitaries on the Dias. Before coming on to the Dias, Dr. Heggade performed puja to Nandi Dhwaja.

Over 15,000 people from across the State attended the programme. Interestingly, several Muslims, who had availed various benefits from Dr. Heggade's initiatives, too were part of the programme. Before the dignitaries addressed the gathering, a Panchaloha white Ganesha idol was presented to Dr. Heggade. The idol was so heavy that it had to be carried by four people.

Inaugurating the event, Mysuru District Minister G.T. Devegowda said that Dr. Heggade assumed charge as Pattadhikari at a very young age of 20 after his father Rathnavarma's death. "Today, Dharmasthala and Dr. Veerendra Heggade are synonymous with each other. The Dharmasthala group along with its education and social service wings has done yeomen work in the society that is no less than any government machinery," he said.

Sri Nataraja Swamiji of Gurulinga Jangamadevara Mutt, Gavadagere, Tourism Minister S.R. Mahesh, MP Pratap Simha, MLAs L. Nagendra, Yathindra Siddharamaiah, MLC Sandesh Nagaraj, President of Federation of Cooperative Societies H.V. Rajeev, Chief Executive Officer of Sri Kshetra Dharmasthala Gramabhivruddhi Yojane Dr. L.H. Manjunath, former MP C.H. Vijayashankar, former MLA M.K. Somashekar, former MLC D. Madegowda and others were present.

Encroachments on private land cleared following Court order

Mysuru, Nov. 2 (PM&SR)- Armed with a demolition order, Court officials, with the help of Vijayanagar Police, cleared encroachments on a private land near Doddathammaiah Circle at Vijayanagar Second Stage in city this morning.

Based on a Court directive, they brought down more than 16 shops that had illegally occupied the area. The shops included tea, ice cream and other shops that were established in 13 guntas of land.

The encroachments were cleared in the presence of Court Amin Sripad. A large number of people had assembled at the place to witness the demolition process.

There was a property dispute between Puttalakshmi, wife of M. Gangadhara of Palahalli village of Srirangapatna taluk and Devanna, son of late Subbegowda of Kumbarakoppal. Puttalakshmi had filed a petition in the Court of Additional Senior Civil Judge, Mysuru.

The petitioner alleged that some anti-social elements had colluded and encroached upon the land with indirect support of certain unscrupulous government officials. The Court had given the ruling in favour of Puttalakshmi besides directing the Police to clear encroachments. Workers and earthmoving machines hired by the petitioner cleared the encroachments.

Speaking to Star of Mysore, former Corporator Shivamadu said that his sister Puttalakshmi had purchased 13 guntas of land from one Devanna. But one of the sons of Devanna claimed share in his father's ancestral property and moved the Court. However, the Court gave the verdict in his sister's favour and directed the Police to clear encroachments.

Bypolls tomorrow for 3 MP, 2 MLA seats

The bypoll for Ramanagara Assembly segment was caused by the resignation of Chief Minister H.D. Kumaraswamy, who chose to retain Channapatna after his election from both the Constituencies in the May 2018 polls, while the byelection to Jamkhandi in Bagalkot district was necessitated by the death of Congress MLA Siddu Nyamagowda, who was killed in a road mishap, a week after his election.

While the bypoll for the vacant Assembly segments were expected, the announcement of the bypolls for the three LS seats, with the General elections hardly about 5 months away, came as a shock to political leaders, who had least expected it. However, the Election Commission of India (ECI) sprang a surprise by announcing the Karnataka bypoll schedule on Oct.6, along with Assembly polls for five other States including Madhya Pradesh, Rajasthan and Chhattisgarh.

Following the announcement of the poll schedule, the ruling coalition partners in the State, JD(S) and Congress, reached an understanding on sharing of seats, according to which Congress would contest Ballari LS and Jamkhandi Assembly seat, while the JD(S) would contest Mandya and Shivamogga LS seats and Ramanagara Assembly segment, vacated by H.D. Kumaraswamy.

The BJP fielded former MP J. Shantha for Ballari (ST), B.Y. Raghavendra, elder son of B.S. Yeddyurappa for Shivamogga and little known candidate Dr. Siddharamaiah, a former IRS officer, for Mandya LS seat.

The JD(S) fielded former MLA L.R. Shivaramegowda from Mandya LS seat, Madhu Bangarappa, son of former CM late S. Bangarappa from Shivamogga LS seat and Anitha Kumaraswamy, wife of H.D. Kumaraswamy from Ramanagara.

The Congress fielded former MLC V.S. Ugrappa from Ballari (ST) and Anand Nyama Gowda, son of late MLA Siddu Nyama Gowda for Jamkhandi.

The BJP fielded its veteran leader Srikanth Kulkarni from Jamkhandi and L. Chandrasekhar, son of Congress MLC C.M. Lingappa, from Ramanagara.

Chandrasekhar, who was with the Congress for years, defected to the BJP just 20 days ago and got the party ticket.

However, Chandrasekhar announced his retirement from the contest yesterday, which came as a rude shock to the BJP, which was hoping to snatch the seat, considered a JD(S) stronghold.

While the coalition is going all out to win all the five seats, the BJP is leaving no chances to win the seats, despite the party receiving a huge set back in Ramanagara.

Transgender Anjali Lama's Fashion Journey

Anjali Lama

By B.C. Thimmaiah

Nepal's first transgender model will make a special appearance at the Season-5 of the Mysore Fashion Week this evening at The Windflower Resorts and Spa. The three-day show has been organised by city-based fashion designer Jayanthi Ballal.

Anjali Lama was the first from the 'other' category to walk at the Lakme Fashion Week in Mumbai last year. Insulted at school and college and fired from jobs for being a 'feminine man', Anjali was turned away at most of the fashion auditions for being a 'manly woman.' But her 32-year-long struggle has now paid off and she is at an enviable place where most models aspire to be.

Anjali has a strong stage presence and striking features. One does not fail to notice her sharp cheekbones, resembling famous fashion models. She carries herself graciously with trendy dresses and has already caused ripples in the fashion world. After years of struggling with sexual standards imposed by society, Anjali no longer shies away from revealing her identity. Rather she is vocal about it.

In an exclusive chat with Star of Mysore at the sprawling and illuminated lawns of Windflower last evening where she was preparing to set the ramp on fire, Anjali makes no bones about being a transgender and tells that her ability to work really hard is her greatest strength.

Traumatic childhood

Born as a boy, Nabin Waiba, to a farming family and growing up in the rural district of Nuwakot in Nepal, Anjali was often severely bullied for having feminine tendencies. She spent majority years in life fighting prejudice and discrimination. Apart from being bullied at school, at home she went through the trauma of being pressured to conform to gender stereotypes by her family and loved ones.

Anjali was one of seven children born to her parents and she says she enjoyed wearing women's clothing and her friends at school were mostly girls. She recounts: "At school, I used to be mocked for my girlish tendencies and wherever I went, people used to say, 'Look, he is a girl.' As if that trauma during my growing up was not enough, at home my father would scold me asking what would I do with my life?"

"Rebukes and insults I faced at my school also brought self-doubt and confusion. It was during my college years that I took a decision — To live the identity that I held close to my heart," she says.

Struggles in Kathmandu

At the age of 18, Lama "came out" from her farming world and moved to Kathmandu, Nepal's capital city. Being a city, Kathmandu didn't help and she had to continue her struggle with gender identity. She came there to study but had to work at a hotel to support her education. "I was fired because of my feminine behaviour. Hotel owners said that I made the customers uncomfortable," she says.

While working in the hotel, Anjali saw a TV programme on Nepal's transgender community. She then contacted 'Blue Diamond Society' that worked for sexual minorities. "I realised I'm not the only one, this is my society," she says.

Breaking shackles

"And there was no looking back and I wanted to live my life of true identity. I broke the shackles and came out of years of torturous experience. Here too, when my family found out that I have chosen to become a girl, they said that I was dead to them. Only my mother kept contact and she gave me the strength to stand by my decision," Anjali reveals.

"My mother Seljom was very close to me and she is my inspiration. Whenever I was in a crisis I would remember what my mother told me about not giving up, and moving forward. I knew someone, somewhere will give me an opportunity," she sighs.

Attached to mother

"The world was not the same for me after my mother's death and it hit me hard, close to breaking me and my self-confidence. But I never gave up. I went to see my mother's dead body and someone told me to dress as a boy. I refused as it was not my identity. I went in a girl's dress and there were more people looking at me rather than my mom who was lying in state," she recalls.

Zingbi Mysore Fashion Week

"I went near my mother's body sobbing but my brother rained blows on my back and said that because of me the family had to face a lot of shame. Even to this day, I cry, thinking of my mother and the incidents at the time of her death," Anjali says, desperately trying to hide her emotions.

Foray into fashion

Her first foray into fashion was inspired by the very community of friends she established once she embraced her transgender identity. They encouraged her to consider a career in modelling and overcome identity issues.

Anjali's decision to fully embrace her gender identity began to pay off when she landed the cover of 'Voice of Women' in Kathmandu in 2009. "My friends told me I was not meant to be stuck in Nepal, and that I should try to become an international supermodel." For over 10 years she struggled in Kathmandu and could not get a chance at Nepal Fashion Week.

"Nepal Fashion Week crushed my modelling dreams by rejecting me for three consecutive years. It was my dream to walk there. Because of my gender I wasn't picked," she explains.

"I would directly ask the judges, 'Why didn't I get selected?' The organisers would tell me: 'They know you're a transgender, so they don't want you as a model.' I felt very sad, it was disheartening. But I kept on trying," she says.

Mumbai experience

Later she took her friends' advice, and first auditioned for Lakme Fashion Week in Mumbai. She was rejected twice. She did not lose hope. "But I remember feeling quite helpless and even considered giving up on fashion," she says. "But I decided to try for the third time in 2017 and this time I did my research. I watched videos of models walking the ramp, changed my make-up and wardrobe. I practiced posing in front of the mirror so I would be able to present myself; the judges were impressed and I made it to the Lakme Fashion Week and here I am being interviewed," she laughs — a radiant smile that.

Well-versed in English and Hindi, Anjali is tall and has a gracious poise. If anything, it's only the voice that could give her away. She never hides her identity. "I never lie," she signs off.

On scrapping of Section 377

On the Supreme Court of India striking down the draconian Article 377 that penalised gay sex and lesbianism, Anjali said, "Transgenders are treated fairly unfairly everywhere — be it accommodation or jobs, nothing comes easy for us. I salute the Supreme Court as after the judgement, we have renewed confidence. I was in Mumbai trying to establish myself. I had limited money and people would not give their houses on rent to Transgenders. Now it is a big relief."

Woman's chain snatched in city

Mysuru, Nov.2 (RK&NNN)- Miscreants snatched a 50 gram gold necklace from a woman who was walking home from a shop near her house at Hebbal on Oct.31.

The incident occurred in the afternoon near Shivananda School. The victim is Kaushalya, 34, wife of Hebbal resident Srinivas.

Kaushalya runs a paying guest accommodation. She had gone to a shop and was returning around 2.30 pm when miscreants came on a bike snatched the chain and sped away.

On receiving the information, Hebbal Police Station Inspector Prasad and his staff visited the spot, conducted mahzar and registered a case. The residents of the area are worried that the chain snatching incident has occurred in broad daylight and are now scared about their safety.

Money stolen from car

In another incident that occurred in broad daylight on the same day, miscreants broke the glass window of a car on Oct.31 and decamped with Rs.2.90 lakh belonging to an industrialist and escaped.

The incident occurred near HDFC Bank in VV Mohalla and the victim is Shekar son of Narayan, a resident of Gokulam, 3rd Stage.

Shekar who runs a petrol bunk in K.R. Nagar had withdrawn Rs. 4 lakh from Vijaya Bank in Gokulam and kept it inside his Maruti Swift car (KA 09 Z 1199). Then he left Rs.2.90 lakh cash in the dashboard of the car after parking it in front of HDFC Bank on Temple Road and went inside the bank with the remaining money.

When he came out of the bank he found the front left window of the car broken. Then he saw that the bag containing the cash had been stolen. Immediately Shekar brought the incident to the notice of VV Puram Police.

Inspector (in-charge) Prakash and his staff reached the spot, conducted mahazar and registered a case. VV Puram Police is looking at the footage in the CCTV cameras.

The Police suspect that some miscreants must have noticed Shekar withdrawing the cash, followed him and committed the crime.

Inter-State women thieves arrested

Rs. 7.3 lakh gold ornaments, Rs. 45,000 cash recovered

Mysuru, Nov. 2 (KS) - Two inter-State women pickpockets, who were out on bail, have been arrested by the City Crime Branch (CCB) Police and the Special Police team on Oct. 25. They have recovered 244 grams gold ornaments worth about Rs. 7.3 lakh and Rs. 45,000 cash from them. The arrested are 40-year-old Usharani and 24-year-old Roopa, residents of Babu Nagar in Jolarpet town of Vellore district in Tamil Nadu.

Anticipating heavy rush by tourists to Mysuru for Dasara festivities and to prevent crime from happening, the City Police Commissioner had formed a Special Police Team comprising CCB officers and staff.

The Special Police Team on Oct. 25 arrested Usharani near KSRTC Bus Stand and interrogated her during which she is said to have confessed of committing pickpockets along with another woman Roopa. Based on the information provided by Usharani, the Police arrested Roopa at a lodge in Vijayanagar Police limits.

In July 2018, Usharani was arrested by Bengaluru's RMC Yard Police and had sent her to jail. After securing bail, Usharani had come to Mysuru and was continuing the crime.

Following their arrest, the Police have solved two cases in Devaraja Police Station and one case each at Lashkar and Kuvempunagar Police Stations.

DCP Dr. Vikram V. Amathe and CCB ACP B.R. Lingappa supervised CCB Inspector Jagadish and staff in the nabbing and recovery operation.
